POST-EVENT LEFTOVER FOOD & TAKE-AWAY POLICY

At Grand Villa, we want every guest to enjoy their event safely. For this reason, any leftover food can only be taken off the premises if it is approved by our FoodSafe certified management team. This policy applies to all food remaining after the event has concluded.

What you need to know:

- Only FoodSafe-certified Grand Villa Management are authorized to review, approve, and package leftover food, using approved containers. Guests and hosts are not permitted to handle or package food themselves
- Generally, only non-temperature-sensitive items—such as pastries, whole fruit, or sealed packaged snacks—may be approved to take home. All hot or cold perishable items, including meats, seafood, dairy dishes, sauces, or any food requiring strict temperature control, must remain on-site.

Safety rules:

- Food that has been out of temperature control, displayed, or served for more than two hours cannot be approved for take-away.
- Once approved items leave the premises, they become the responsibility of the guest or event organizer.

This policy is in place to follow BC Health Authority regulations and FoodSafe standards, ensuring that everyone enjoys their food safely. We appreciate your understanding and cooperation.
